

Da Tale of the Devil...

Actually, the copywriter got confused, that should read "The Devil's in the Details."

It has taken hard work, and our fair share of errors, to perfect this year's batch of new products. Normally, I wouldn't bore you with the fine points, but in this case they really make for a better product.

First off, there is our 6" Petit Screw Hanger. It has the same design as our 5" screw hanger (check out the cut sheet), but it's bigger and stronger.

However, a screw hanger is only as good as its screw, and that's the detail that we finally got right. Look at the sample that came with this mailer. The critical features are:

- A needle point to easily prick the aluminum gutter;
- the threads go all the way to the point to quickly engage;
- the faster pitch on the threads extends battery life;
- the screw body is bigger than standard and 20% stronger;
- the unthreaded shaft under the head helps with the final pull up;
- the washer has a larger OD to capture more of the back of the gutter (that's what holds it up!);

and the head is taller to better fit your nut driver. See—lots of details.

Zip Screw Shooter

Nut Driver

Screw

Our new Zip Screw Shooter has its own special features: the 1/4" drive chuck has been turned down to fit the screw shooter and gives it a 6" reach; it has a super strong magnet to hold better; and the oversized barrel of the shooter will take any gutter screw. A great tool for eight bucks if you use hanger screws.

And finally, 7" Gutter Guard. There aren't many 7" machines out there, but there are lots of 6" installations where the gutter hangs low on the fascia and an extra inch to tuck under the shingle would help. So, we make this a full 7 1/4" wide and have added two extra louvers to pass more water.

Oh, almost forgot the other sample. I wanted to remind you what a good, strong ferrule looks like.

It was also an easy way to keep the screw from chewing it's way out of the mailer.

And that's the end of Da Tale.
